

Why I would send my child to Junior High at SRB...

Oh to be in Junior High again. That point in your life when you are starting to mature, but still hold onto your youth. A child's Junior High experience should be filled with math, reading, writing, science and social studies. It should also be filled with friends, and life experiences. I know that I would want to be a student at St. Roberts to enjoy all of these activities! In fact, I actually did attend SRB a few short years ago!

The curriculum is designed to prepare students for high school. The students rotate among a number of teachers for different subjects. We also make sure that the work is fair, but challenging. We push for them to do their best. By the time the students leave at the end of eighth grade, they are prepared for the workload and challenges of high school. We also have Beta Club, which is an honors club based on grades. The students work hard to be a part of this club. This club offers service projects for the students to work on at school and the community around us.

I believe that we at SRB foster friendships, new and old. There have been many times new students came to our school in Junior High and they were embraced by those who have been together for years. Our motto encourages the students to treat everyone with respect. I love the fact that we can use Christian values to teach the students to be good towards one another. From September to June, I want all the students to feel comfortable and happy.

We offer the students many activities including sports, buddy projects with younger students and occasional program events with other schools. We also broaden our experiences with field trips.

Your time at school should be special; and I can confidently say if you have a child who attends St. Robert Bellarmine School, they will have a great time and make many wonderful memories!
